

In English, we have been learning about fables. In groups, we planned our own fables then acted them out. All our fables had brilliant morals.

