

Anti-Bullying Week

In PSHE, we have been learning about anti-bullying. We looked at two identical apples. We passed one apple round the circle and talked about things we like about the apple. We then looked at the other apple. We passed the apple round and insulted the apple, saying things we don't like about it .

After that, we cut up both apples in half. We found out that the apple we complimented and said kind words about was very clean and beautiful inside.

However, the apple that we insulted was bruised and brown inside. We learnt that when we say hurtful things to other people, we often can't see the damage that we're doing on the inside.